I) Hiking Tours

1) Inca Trail to Machu Picchu

Please notice this hiking tour may start from Cusco or the sacred valley

Trek notes:

Tour code: ECSMPT-01

Duration: four days

Activity Level: demanding

Max Altitude: 4,200 meters (13,780 feet)

Season: March to January

Service: Private

Accommodation: four-season tents

Trek Description

Day 1: Start your Private Inca Trail Adventure

Estimated hiking distance: 7.5 miles/12 kilometers

Estimated hiking time: six hours

This morning you are picked up by your guide from your hotel, and start with a smooth ride through the spectacular sacred valley of the Incas, after a three-hour ride we arrive at the trailhead at Km 82, where we meet our Inca trail crew of porters and Cook.

We start with a six-hour hike on a well-marked path, enjoying the eucalyptus groves, outstanding views of Urubamba River, the Vilcanota Mountain Range, the snow-capped peak of Veronica (19,102 ft./5,822m.) and the agricultural terraces in the Inca complex of Llaqtapata.

Overnight in Huayllabamba campsite – REI four-season tents

Meals included: Lunch and Dinner

Day 2: Dead Woman's Pass and Pacaymayo

Estimated hiking distance: 7 miles/11 kilometers

Estimated hiking time: eight hours

Today may be the most challenging day of your Inca trail adventure, we will climb steeply almost 4,000 feet (1,220 meters), but no worries your guide and Inca trail crew will ensure you have a safe and unique experience.

Before setting off on our second day on the Inca trail, we will have a nutritious breakfast that will give us sufficient fuel and energy to reach the top of the Dead Woman's Pass (13,780 feet/4,200 meters). If you need to push yourself, keep an eye on the prize, there are no words to describe the overwhelming sense of accomplishment that you will feel when reaching the top of the Dead Woman's Pass. You will have breathtaking views of the thick forest, snowcapped peaks and the Inca trail.

After crossing the Dead Woman's Pass, we start descending along a rock stepped trail to Pacaymayo valley (11,810 feet/3,600 meters), our campsite for tonight.

Overnight in Pacaymayo campsite – REI four-season tents

Meals included: Breakfast, Lunch and Dinner

Day 3: Amazing Andean scenery on the Royal Inca trail.

Estimated hiking distance: 10 miles/16 kilometers

Estimated hiking time: eight hours

Today, we will have to reach only two mountain passes, cross the cloud forest and visit amazing Inca sites.

After a hearty breakfast, we set off on our third day on the Inca trail. We start with a one-hour climb to the circular ruins of Runkurakay, it is believed it was a resting place for Incan couriers during Inca times. After visiting this Inca site, we climb for almost one hour towards Runkurakay Pass (12,960 feet/3,950 meters) here we will have amazing views of the snowcapped peaks of Vilcabamba mountain range.

We continue our hike down to Sayacmarca, known as the "inaccessible town", a well preserved mysterious Inca complex (11,772 feet/3,588 meters), nobody knows exactly what this Inca site was built for but we will enjoy it much.

The trail climbs down to the valley floor, and we enjoy the beautiful orchids while walking on the Inca road. The trail starts to climb again, we pass through the Inca tunnel that traverses solid rock. After passing the tunnel, the trail leads up to the third pass, we reach Phuyupatamarca (12,140 feet/3,700 meters), you will have a great opportunity to enjoy stunning views of Salkantay and Veronica Snowcapped Mountains.

After crossing our third mountain Pass, we arrive in the "Cloud-Level Town" of Phuyupatamarca, one of the most impressive archaeological Inca centers.

Finally, we camp near Wiñaywayna (8,829 feet/2,691 meters), the most spectacular archaeological complex of the entire Inca Trail.

Overnight in Wiñaywayna campsite – REI four-season tents

Meals included: Breakfast, Lunch and Dinner

Day 4: Machu Picchu

Estimated hiking distance: 2.5 miles/4 kilometers

Estimated hiking time: four hours

Today, we will wake up very early, have another hearty breakfast and head to the "Sun Gate" where we will enjoy our first sight of the "lost city" of Machu Picchu. You may want to spend some time sitting and overlooking Machu Picchu!

Then, we hike down for just one hour and arrive in Machu Picchu, one of the most extraordinary archaeological sites on earth!

Trek Description

Day 1: Morning train from Cusco to Km 104

Estimated hiking distance: 7 miles/11 kilometers

Estimated hiking time: seven hours

Early morning, you are picked up from your hotel and driven to the train station to board your train to Km 104.

Private Short Inca Trail

Upon arrival at Km 104, the starting point of your short Inca trail trek to Machu Picchu, we cross the foot bridge over the Vilcanota River, pass the checkpoint (you need to show your passport), and start our adventure on the Inca Trail to Machu Picchu.

Our first stop will be by the Inca's Ruins of Chachabamba, it is believed that this place was an important religion site and a guardhouse to control the access to Machu Picchu. After visiting Chachabamba, we embark on a four-hour uphill hike to Wiñaywayna Ruins, the largest and most amazing Inca site of the Inca Trail, here you will have enough time to explore its terraces, houses and enjoy the magic scenery.

After lunch, we continue our hike through the cloud-forest until reaching the stone threshold of Inti Punku, known as "The Sun Gate" due to it was the main entrance to Machu Picchu during the Inca Period. It is located at an altitude of 2,745 (9,005 feet) above the sea level and offers you a unique chance to enjoy the most beautiful picture of Machu Picchu. We arrive in the "Hidden City" of Machu Picchu late in the afternoon and board the bus to Aguas Calientes (Machu Picchu Pueblo) where you will stay overnight. Tomorrow, you will return to Machu Picchu for your private tour of the most amazing Inca Site!

III) Tour Extensions

1) Tambopata Reserve Tour

Please notice this tour starts from Puerto Maldonado city. It is offered on shared basis, for private services and more information please contact us.

Day 1: Puerto Maldonado – Posada Amazonas

Upon arrival at Puerto Maldonado airport, you are met by our representative, who will be holding a sign with your name, and driven to Rainforest Expeditions office, where you will register, enjoy a refreshing fruit drink and leave your excess luggage in the office storage, until your return to the airport to board your flight to Cusco. Then you will be driven to Tambopata River port, located 20 kilometers (12 miles) from Puerto Maldonado, in the native community of El Infierno. From here you travel by boat through Tambopata River for almost one hour upstream to Posada Amazonas Lodge.

Upon arrival at Posada Amazonas, the lodge staff will welcome you and provide you with an introductory briefing and security tips.

Canopy Tower

This afternoon you will have a 20-minute walk to an observation tower and have the chance to enjoy amazing views of the Amazon treetops, Tambopata River, monkeys, flocks of parrots flying and even a few macaws and toucans!

In the evening, you can attend a lecture about ecotourism given by a Posada Amazonas Staff.
